The gift fund established in Ted's name will be dedicated to building and preserving the collection. Because of Ted's work on behalf of students and his dedication to teaching the mastery of information skills, the books currently in the collection and those yet to be purchased will provide opportunities for learning and research now and for many years to come.

It is fitting that the library dedicates the finest baseball research collection in the Alliance to the memory of its founder and architect. This collection, now a source of pride, has been used by students to create bibliographies and write papers on a wide variety of subjects. This collection does not define the essence of Ted Smith, but it does celebrate his legacy in a significant and meaningful way.
